

TO: Jill Cetina, Professor of Practice (Clinical Professor)

FROM: James R. Brown, Professor and Department Head, Adam C. Sinn '00 Department of Finance

SUBJECT: Annual Performance Review: July 1, 2024 – December 31, 2024

Jamie Brown (May 29, 2025 23:49 CDT)

Typically, performance reviews cover a calendar year; however, as you began working for the University on July 1, 2024, this review is for the period July 1, 2024 through December 31, 2024. My evaluation is based on the information submitted through Faculty 180, which includes documentation of your teaching performance and service activities (as with most APT faculty appointments, your position does not have formal research expectations).

Mays Faculty Promotion and Tenure Guidelines define four levels of performance for the key dimensions across which performance is reviewed. These levels of performance are:

- Excellent performance: a high level of performance that meets and exceeds norms and expectations and that is reflected by substantive indicators of excellence;
- Effective performance: performance that meets norms and expectations and that is reflected by substantive indicators of effective performance;
- Needs improvement performance: performance that falls below norms and expectations of effective performance as reflected by substantive indicators of needs improvement performance;
- Unsatisfactory performance: performance that falls below norms and expectations of excellent, effective, and needs improvement performance as reflected by substantive indicators of unsatisfactory performance.

Teaching:

Your formal teaching assignments included FINC 501, and FINC 502 (2 sections). You delivered high-impact instruction across both undergraduate and graduate fixed income courses, thoughtfully integrating Bloomberg and Haver Analytics to connect academic material with real-world application. Your redesign of course content to reflect your extensive professional experience was well-received by students, several of whom described your class as the best they had taken at Texas A&M. In addition to your formal teaching, your guest lectures and mentorship engagements with student organizations and internal programs greatly enriched the learning environment and student career preparation.

Student feedback on your teaching and impact has been very positive, with many students indicating that you are an engaging and highly knowledgeable instructor who brings passion and real-world application to the classroom, making complex material accessible and memorable. Others noted some concerns about assessment timing and instructional pacing, suggesting that the advanced level of content delivery could occasionally feel overwhelming. Overall, students appreciated your depth of expertise and your efforts to connect course concepts to current financial events.

Most Positive Comments

- Professor Cetina was excellent at tying in real world scenarios into our lecture... this has been one of my favorite classes during college.
- Professor Cetina has been amazing throughout the semester and has contributed a lot to my understanding of the bond market.
- My most favorite professor. She has a kind heart and real passion for the material taught.

Most Critical Comments

- Exams were far from the class start date, and crammed at the end.
- The professor is a very smart individual, and teaches as if her college students are also that intelligent.

Service:

Your service to the Adam C. Sinn '00 Department of Finance includes your involvement and leadership with the following activities:

- Associate Director, Commercial Banking Program
- Applied research, consulting, and expert testimony within the banking industry.

You provided outstanding service to the department, college, and broader profession through your applied research, media presence, and leadership in regulatory and nonprofit organizations. Your forthcoming article in the Yale Journal of Financial Crises and recurring contributions to American Banker have significantly elevated the visibility of our department. Your involvement with the Conference of State Banking Supervisors, BTRM, and the St. Baldrick's Foundation demonstrates a deep commitment to public impact and thought leadership. These efforts reflect your dedication to advancing both the academic and professional mission of the department and Texas A&M.

Overall Evaluation: Excellent

Research and Scholarly Leadership:

As noted above, your position does not have a formal research expectation. However, we are deeply grateful for your outstanding contributions to applied research and thought leadership in financial regulation and macroprudential policy. Your ability to translate complex regulatory topics into accessible, policy-relevant insights has enhanced the visibility of the Department of Finance and Mays Business School. Through your frequent op-eds in American Banker, media contributions to national outlets, and participation in high-profile panels and conferences, you have elevated Texas A&M's presence in national conversations on financial stability. Your work not only informs public discourse but also brings valuable real-world perspective into the classroom, enriching the academic experience for our students. Thank you for your continued dedication and impact!

Other:

Your evaluation noted that you were not provided with defined goals upon hiring, other than teaching specific courses. Faculty goals are typically self-directed. Please develop your own goals for service and teaching for inclusion in this coming year's evaluation.

Promotion, Tenure, and Reappointment

You currently serve as Professor of Practice (Clinical Professor), the highest rank within your faculty track.

I truly appreciate all your contributions to the Adam C. Sinn '00 Department of Finance and to Mays Business School. It is a pleasure to work with you!
