SUBJECT: Annual Performance Review: January 1, 2024 – December 31, 2024

Jamie Brown (May 29, 2025 23:49 CDT)

This letter serves as your performance review for the period January 1, 2024 through December 31, 2024. My evaluation is based on the information submitted through Faculty 180, which includes documentation of your teaching performance, research productivity, and service activities.

Mays Faculty Promotion and Tenure Guidelines define four levels of performance for the key dimensions across which performance is reviewed. These levels of performance are:

- Excellent performance: a high level of performance that meets and exceeds norms and expectations and that is reflected by substantive indicators of excellence;
- Effective performance: performance that meets norms and expectations and that is reflected by substantive indicators of effective performance;
- Needs improvement performance: performance that falls below norms and expectations of effective performance as reflected by substantive indicators of needs improvement performance;
- Unsatisfactory performance: performance that falls below norms and expectations of excellent, effective, and needs improvement performance as reflected by substantive indicators of unsatisfactory performance.

Teaching:

You delivered an exceptional teaching load this year, leading eight sections across undergraduate and graduate finance courses and reaching hundreds of students. Your instruction continues to earn high praise for clarity, energy, and relevance, and your student evaluations consistently highlight both your teaching effectiveness and the care you show for students' well-being. In addition to teaching core courses such as FINC 351, 603, and 632, your long-term service across flagship programs—including Aggies on Wall Street, Tanner Fund, PPA, Commercial Banking, MS Business, and the Full-Time MBA—demonstrates the breadth and depth of your impact.

You are a clear model of pedagogical excellence and leadership. Over your 27-year career at Mays, you have taught 14 different courses and consistently excelled in diverse instructional settings. Your work to integrate Bloomberg Professional Service™, develop portfolio management content using Reliant Center resources, and create innovative instructional tools like Excel-based interactive modules for portfolio theory showcases your commitment to equipping students with practical, differentiating skills. Your willingness to mentor colleagues and share teaching resources further amplifies your influence.

Your formal teaching assignments included FINC 351 (2 sections), FINC 603 (2 sections), and FINC 632 (4 sections). Course evaluation comments were generally positive, with many students indicating that you are a highly knowledgeable, passionate, and engaging instructor who explains complex concepts clearly and fosters an effective learning environment. Others noted occasional concerns regarding alignment between lecture content and assessments, as well as the level of challenge presented on exams relative to in-class examples. Overall, your teaching is highly valued, with students frequently ranking you among the best instructors they've had at Mays.

Most Positive Comments

- Dr. Dye is one of the best teachers across this university hands down. He does such an amazing job keeping the students engaged and learning while in the classroom setting.
- Professor Dye is extremely knowledgeable about every topic. Very kind and helpful in office hours, and great at explaining things.
- The class was very well structured and organized, and Dr. Dye does a great job at explaining complex material in simple ways. I would recommend this class to anyone.

Most Critical Comments

- The instructor had his practically memorized list of things he wanted to get through each session which showed little similarity to the tests given in the class.
- Notes were organized but half the time did not correlate to quiz questions. Felt like notes taught ABC and quiz/test/practice problems asked for XYZ.

Department Average (Effective Course/Effective Instructor): 4.40/4.44

Evaluation Average (Effective Course/Effective Instructor): 4.62/4.72

Overall Evaluation: Excellent

Service:

Your service to the department this year has been outstanding. Your long-standing support of key programs like BBA-Finance, MSF, and student groups such as the Financial Services Organization and Orthodox Christian Fellowship shows how invested you are in our students' success both in and out of the classroom.

Behind the scenes, your work on course scheduling and curricular management has been a significant help to the department. It's a tough job that requires juggling a lot of moving parts, and you've handled it with skill and patience. Just as important, you've taken the time to mentor Jennifer Griffin as she steps into that role—making sure things will keep running smoothly in the future. You're not just a mentor to students, but also to your colleagues, and your willingness to share what you know and help others grow makes a real difference around here.

Overall Evaluation: Excellent

Research and Scholarly Leadership:

The research expectations for Clinical faculty members vary based on individual preferences and departmental needs. In addition to teaching responsibilities, Clinical faculty are expected to engage in a combination of service and research activities. A Clinical faculty who actively engages in research would be expected to have a lower level of service activity, and vice versa.

Reviewing your previous performance evaluations, it appears that research does not seem to be one of your career objectives at this time.

Promotion, Tenure, and Reappointment

You currently serve as Professor of Practice (Clinical Professor), the highest rank within your faculty track. You will be reappointed as Professor of Practice (Clinical Professor) for the 2025-2026 academic year.

I truly appreciate all your contributions to the Adam C. Sinn '00 Department of Finance and to Mays Business School. It is a pleasure to work with you!
