▼ Teaching, Research and/or Other Scholarly or Creative Activities, and Service Impact Statement (Faculty Evaluation Review)

Faculty should write an impact statement on their teaching, research and/or other scholarly or creative activities in this section. Other parameters that can be included are h-index, etc.

Teaching, Research and/or Other Scholarly or Creative Activities, and Service Impact Statement	Semester
TRS / Creative Activities Statement	Start Semester
In 2024, I focused on strengthening my scholarly contributions in banking and finance. A notable milestone was receiving a revise-and-resubmit from the Review of Economic Studies, a leading journal in economics and highly regarded in finance, for my paper titled “Bank Capital and Bank Stock Performance: When Times are Tough, Capital is King.” This is a joint work with my colleague, Christa Bouwman. For some of my other work on asset pricing, I presented or am invited to give seminar at the Federal Reserve Bank in Kansas, Bank of Canada, Indiana University, Purdue University (Statistics) and Seoul National University. In terms of teaching, I dedicated significant effort to curriculum development. At the request of the MBA program, I designed a new course on technical analysis for the Flex Online MBA. Integrating behavioral finance perspectives, I compared traditional fundamental analysis with chart-based techniques and introduced applications of machine learning and artificial intelligence for analyzing market trends and asset prices. This course intends to equip students with a broader investment toolkit and reflects my research belief in blending data-driven methods with analytical frameworks. My involvement on the college-level AI steering committee allowed me to contribute to strategic planning for AI-focused initiatives, a growing area in finance and business education. I strengthened the college’s visibility in AI research intersecting with financial decision-making. I started developing a dedicated AI course for the programs since the fall 2024, preparing students for a rapidly evolving job market and reaffirming our institution’s leadership in innovative business education. Goals	Semester
Please list what your goals were for the previous year and what your planned goals are for the upcoming year.	Start Semester	End Semester
Last year, my primary goals were to complete several revisions and submit a few working papers. Regarding revisions, my coauthors and I successfully submitted one paper to the Journal of Financial Quantitative Analysis. We received positive feedback indicating that our opinions are converging, although some additional robustness checks on our simulation and estimation results are required. I have been diligently working on two of my sole-authored papers in the Review of Financial Studies and the Journal of Financial Economics. I am committed to making significant progress in re-running structural estimations and simulations this summer and fall. Additionally, my coauthors and I are nearly finished revising the Review of Asset Pricing Studies. I am optimistic that we can submit it back to the journal by the end of March. Last year, my coauthors and I submitted and received a new revise and resubmit from the Review of Economic Studies, and my coauthors and I have been diligently working on revising the paper. We have made substantial progress on addressing most of the referees and editor's comments, and we anticipate completing our revision by the end of this summer or early fall.	Spring 2024	Fall 2024
